

CHILD THOUGHT TO BE KIDNAPPED IS FOUND IN WOODS

Inmate of Orphanage Who Disappeared When Sent For Water Had Been Hiding in Woods All Day—Returned to Orphanage.

Lawrenceburg, Ky., Nov. 24.—Vergio Blandon, a thirteen-year-old girl from the Christian Orphan's Home, Louisville, who has been living with Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Dorsey at Johnsonville, whom it was feared had been kidnapped when she failed to return from the spring where she had been sent to get a bucket of water, was found near Wardsville by Chris Jenkins.

Scores of citizens and Deputy Sheriff's Hilary Yeom and John G. Bond scoured the countryside all day long searching for the missing child.

The girl was sent to the spring about a quarter of a mile from the house shortly after sunrise to get a bucket of water. Considerable time elapsed and she failed to return. Someone was sent to the spring to look for her and the empty bucket was found sitting near the spring but there were no traces of the orphan.

Searching parties were organized and two deputy sheriffs were sent to the scene immediately after her absence had been reported. The officers questioned the neighbors and the children at the school house in an effort to secure information.

The child when found said that she had hidden herself in the woods all day and had waited until nightfall when she planned to run away, according to information given out by Deputy Sheriff Sam Mitchell.

The orphan child was taken to the Dorsey home several months ago but trouble with her eyes necessitated her return to the orphanage for their treatment. When the defective eyes had been treated she was taken back by the Dorsey family a few weeks ago.

Mr. Jenkins found the missing child by the roadside near Wardsville after twilight had fallen and she was returned to the Dorsey home where she spent the night.

She was taken back to the Louisville orphanage by Mr. Dorsey.

BROMLEY GIRL QUESTIONED ON DEATH OF CHICAGOAN

Bromley Woman Who Was a Close Friend of Chicago Millionaire Found Murdered (Can Give No Clues).

Dispatches from Chicago told Saturday of the mysterious murder of "Handsome Joe" Lanus, millionaire auto dealer and bachelor, who was a friend of Miss Mabel Gray of River road, Bromley, Ky.

Miss Gray was shocked when informed of Lanus' death. She saw him a month ago in Chicago, she said. Lanus was found dying in his garage and salesrooms Friday night. He had been shot twice in the back with his own revolver. A long yellow glove, evidently a woman's lay beside him.

Lanus visited her family here for a few days two years ago, Miss Gray said. She saw him often while she was in Chicago this summer, she said.

Miss Alice McArdle, Lanus' bookkeeper, told Chicago police she understood Miss Gray and her employer were engaged, but Miss Gray emphasized that such a report was untrue.

"We went together a good deal in Chicago this summer, but it was understood we were only friends," she said. "I have no information that would furnish a clue to the murder."

Police quizzed several Chicago women about Lanus' affairs after he was found dying. He did not recover consciousness after being shot. Lanus was a frequent enroute visitor and well known in Chicago's night life, police said.

"Handsome Joe" didn't like women individually," Miss McArdle told police according to dispatches. "He was not satisfied unless he had a whole bag of them around him."

NASHVILLE'S COUNCILMEN OUST MAYOR.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 25.—For the second time in its history Nashville, last night, experienced a change in city government, through the medium of the ouster law. Felix Z. Wilson, for 18 months mayor, was removed summarily by the City Council. Percy Sharpe, former member of the county court and business man, immediately was elected to the place. No charges were brought against Wilson, but his downfall followed refusal of the council to confirm his appointees as members of the Board of Education. He recently expelled five members of the city detective force who were charged with pernicious political activity against the mayor during his election campaign.

CITY SUES CIRCUIT CLERK TO COLLECT ON FINE

Section of New Dry Enforcement Law of the State to Be Tested in Suit Brought Late Friday By City.

The City of Maysville brought suit in the Mason Circuit Court late Friday against Circuit Clerk James B. Key to collect a fine of three hundred dollars which was assessed against William Edgar in City Court on a liquor charge.

The case was appealed by Edgar to Circuit Court and in that court the City Court was affirmed and the fine paid by Edgar to the Circuit Clerk.

Because of a conflict of laws, the Circuit Clerk has refused to turn the money over to the city until the law has been passed upon and the suit is to interpret this section of the new state dry law. So far as is known this is the first suit that has been brought under this section of the new law in the state and will be watched with much interest.

STATE'S RIGHT TO TAX DRUGGISTS QUESTIONED

Test Suit Filed Attacking Constitutionality of Liquor License Law.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 24.—In a test suit filed in the Franklin circuit court today, J. W. Renaker of Cyathiana, attacks the constitutionality of the act which requires druggists to pay an annual license of $100 for the right to sell intoxicating liquor. Druggists throughout the state will be affected by the decision of the courts, according to attorneys here.

The action was brought against John J. Craig, state auditor, to whom the license of $100 is paid. Mr. Renaker seeks to recover payments made in 1921 and 1922.

In his petition, Mr. Renaker claims that the national prohibition law abrogates that section of the Kentucky statutes which imposed the license on druggists. Mr. Renaker states that he had made repeated efforts to get a refund on his license payments, but that the auditor claimed the right to impose the tax.

Attorney General Charles I. Dawson said today that in his opinion the license was not affected by either the national or state prohibition laws, and that the auditor should continue to require payments for the privilege of selling liquor.

WOMAN FOUND IN TRUNK MURDERED; HUSBAND CHARGED

Horrible Murder of California Woman Uncovered When Children Reported That She Was In a Trunk.

San Francisco, Nov. 24.—A sensation-brutal ax or hammer murder, was disclosed today when police found the body of Mrs. Margaret Marie Bannan, 30 years of age, in a trunk at her home.

The slain woman's husband, Elmer Edward Bannan, was arrested.

The Bannans have two children, Helen Virginia, 5, and William Warren, 3. It was through a report from one of the children that "mamma was in a trunk," that the murder was disclosed.

Police went to the home and found the trunk. Opening it they were confronted by the body. The woman was in her nightgown. Her head was crushed and her body mutilated.

The husband was arrested shortly after the revelation of the body. He said he had been drunk and had no recollection of what had taken place last night. He added that if he had committed the crime it must have been while "crazy drunk."

SENATOR JOHNSON OF CALIFORNIA

Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, in spite of the efforts made by the Democrats—and certain sinister forces which have no politics except such as are based on selfish interests—to defeat him for reelection, swept the state by a tremendous majority and proved once more the hold which he has retained so long upon the confidence and affections of the people of California.

The work which Senator Johnson accomplished as governor has been largely forgotten by the people of the United States generally, but it can never be forgotten by his constituents. They remember the death-grip which certain powerful, and greedy, and unscrupulous corporations had upon the state, and the slavery out of which Hiram Johnson led them, smashing the machine to bits and "stamping the residue with his feet." They recall the administrations which followed, the remarkable constructive work which was done, the complete reformation of government that took place, and the progress and prosperity which have succeeded. It was the work of one man of iron will, of inflexible courage, and of unblemished integrity whose voice shook down the house of graft as the raw's horns overthrew the walls of Jericho.

Arthur Brisbane suggests in The Leader that Johnson will some day arrive at the White House, and that 1924 is not unlikely to see him on the way.

At any rate he will bear watching. In the primaries in 1920, without organization, to speak of, and without money, he carried state after state in which he personally campaigned, and at Chicago, had the masses of the common people been able to vote in the convention as they cheered on the streets for him, he would have been nominated.

He does not seem, however, to be in the public mind today as much as he was two or three years ago. The people are fickle. It may be that some other favorite will crowd Johnson out. But if the voters are in the state of mind in 1924 which they are now in, it seems certain that they will want a man of Johnson's type, aggressive, bold, progressive, democratic and capable of grappling with great problems of reform without gloves.

Time alone, however, will tell what mood the nation may be in when the nominations are made once more. It is altogether possible that by that time the conservatism and constitutional methods of Mr. Harding, and the constructive things which he is doing in his quiet but persistent way, will make their proper appeal, and that no one else will be thought of.—Lexington Leader.

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT ON THE PRESIDENT

The Lexington Leader recently quoted the eulogy on President Harding pronounced by Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia. Now another Democrat, distinguished as a leader in Ohio politics, and former chairman of the State Central Committee over a period of twelve years during which Patterson, Harmon and Cox were all elected to the governorship, has said some very complimentary things about the President.

He declares that the election of a Republican Senator and 16 of the 22 Congressmen in Ohio must be regarded as an emphatic endorsement of the administration, and that it will be so interpreted throughout the country. The "most sensible, level-headed population to be found in America," he says, determined that the President had faced a tremendous task, and that he had measured up to a high standard of efficiency in meeting the demands of his office.

Mr. Garber makes the following remarkable statement: "That President Harding has accomplished much will be conceded by any unbiased observer. He first chased the vast hordes of loafers off the government pay roll, inaugurated a budget system under Brigadier General Dawes; removed the so-called nuisance taxes upon manufacturers and business men, so industries would have something left with which to extend their operations, thus millions of men and women who were idle now have employment; has collected in the last 30 days the first money, amounting to $500,000, from a war contractor; collected the first two interest installments of $100,000,000 on the British debt; has plans under way for collection instead of cancellation of the entire foreign debt, amounting to $11,000,000,000, and instead of America losing this it will gradually and ultimately find its way back to the United States, to be applied on the national debt, notwithstanding all of the British and foreign propaganda and English and French lectures."

These things are matters of common knowledge. They are doubly impressive, perhaps, when they are set forth by a staunch and loyal Democrat of Mr. Garber's standing in his party. Like Senator Smith he believes, however, in being just and in standing by the President regardless of partisanship when he is doing all that a man in the circumstances can do to straighten out the national economy and the foreign relations of a nation after the most ruinous war in history.

There was not only no verdict in Ohio against the President, but there was none in the country at large, in spite of the losses sustained by the Republican in Congress.

A SHORT AND EASY WAY WITH SPEEDERS

Judge Charles L. Bartlett, of Detroit, the other day ordered to the Detroit House of Correction 28 persons convicted of speeding, passing sentences of from two to thirty days upon them. Before they were taken to jail, however, he had them all escorted through the wards of the Acediving Hospital to look upon the children lying there who have been injured, and in many cases permanently crippled, by automobiles, the results of reckless driving.

Many of the men were sullen and bitter when they left the court room, but there were few who did not soften and become audibly penitent before they had seen the last of the thirty boys and girls lying helpless in the hospital, and some of the broke down and wept.

The experience will never be forgotten, and it ought to be repeated a million times a year in this country where the loss of life as a result of reckless driving is constantly mounting, and has reached proportions that are shocking.

Judge Bartlett also announced, when the prisoners were led away to serve out their time, that in future the penalties would be doubled in every case of conviction, both with respect to fines and imprisonment.

Detroit will certainly see less speeding, less killing and maiming, hereafter as the result of the stern action of this just and fearless judge.

Let the good work go on.

COMMENT

A Cleveland judge a few days ago sentenced six traffic law violators to attend the funeral of a victim of a speeder. This should have some effect not only upon the six prisoners but also upon all careless drivers.

An entire Ohio family of six has been wiped out by a slow poison placed in their food. The murder is one of the most cruel we have heard of in years and the punishment of the murderer should be in keeping with the degree of his terrible crime.

Another horrible mine disaster shocks the nation. We are inclined to believe the miner is not overpaid, when the hazard of his profession is brought so vividly to our attention.

Merz Brothers are celebrating their twenty-first anniversary in Maysville. We congratulate them upon twenty-one years of honest, aggressive merchandising and we congratulate the people of Maysville upon this splendid store. The proprietors are citizens alert to every civic betterment and through their splendid business connections the shoppers of the Maysville trade area are given the best the market affords and at prices unusually low for a city of this size. We wish for them many more years of prosperity in serving so well the best people in the world.

Speaking of anniversaries, we are reminded that "Squire and Mrs. Fred Dresel Friday celebrated their fiftieth or golden wedding anniversary. For a half century this splendid couple have walked together "for better or for worse." Like all couples, they have had some of both. Our wish for them during the next fifty years of their married life is that there shall be no more of the "worse."

Members of the Cardinal Band have been making very special preparations for their Thanksgiving concert Sunday afternoon. It has been quite a while since we have had an opportunity to hear the Cardinals and they will be greeted by a full house Sunday.

The death of Rev. John Mullen removes from Maysville one of its best men and one of its most interesting preachers. Mr. Mullen was fearless in his denunciation of what he thought was wrong and he had the respect of the community. The Christian church has lost a powerful contender for the old gospel as it is taught in the Bible only. He had no patience with those who would compromise the Bible.

Our Daily Poem

IF WE ONLY KNEW.

(By SUE BRIGSBY KNIGHT)
If we only knew that the clouds of today:
Would be chased by tomorrow's sun;

That the shadows stretching across our way,
Is the darkness which comes before dawn;
Life would be sweeter and brighter,
Whether joys were many or few,
And faith our burdens would lighten,
If we only knew.

Could we see in our many sorrows,
The blessings which come in disguise;
Could we look o'er the realm of shadows,
To where the sunlight lies;
We would not faint or fall by the way
As we tread life's pathway through;
But would gain strength from each bitter day,
If we only knew.

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me.
How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana. — "My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years ago and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and everyone tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." — Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles, as it did for Mrs. Long.

New York. — If you come into our city some dark night and think you see a skeleton confronting you at the street corner, don't be startled. It's just a trifle policeman in his new white harness. As an outgrowth of an accident, several night ago, in which an officer was killed by a speeding motorist who didn't see him until he was right upon him, Deputy Commissioner Harris has devised a white harness to safeguard the lives of the traffic squad. It consists of a belt and closed pieces over the shoulders and is visible for several blocks.

Sometimes I wonder if we aren't putting just a bit of unnecessary emphasis on filipness in business as interpreted in our advertising. I think perhaps as advertisers we have reached the condition of the pet child who becomes "snarly" as the result of an encouraging laugh. I was struck with this thought the other day when I was walking down Fourth Avenue. There on a thirty-foot announcement painted on the wall of the twelve story building are the words, "Blank Dressed." Manufacturers of Chicken Dresses.

How long is a league? It sounds like a game or a riddle, but it is a serious matter, indeed. Everybody always assumed that a league was as definite a length of space as a mile or a foot—although I never could remember what it was—but along come an expert on marine laws and upsets the calculations of the whole prohibition enforcement organization by asking the simple question and proving that you can't tell. When a British ship was brought in the other day for having liquor aboard, Attorney Paul A. Zizelman claimed it was outside the "three league limit." That limit is what has always been translated as a "twelve into limit" and the old law has been called the "twelve mile law." But Mr. Zizelman proved that under selective definition, a league might be 4.6 miles or it might be only 2.4, and that consequently even though the steamer was only nine miles out, it was more than three leagues under one definition. He won his case. And now the lawyers interested in similar cases are turning their attention to marine law rather than to a study of the prohibition measures.

They are neighborly down on Mulberry street and adapt themselves to circumstances with convenient flexibility. When Angelo Rizzo's four-months old daughter, Irene, was stricken the other day, 200 guests attended the party afterwards. So Mr. Rizzo, who is an undertaker, had his funeral parlor transformed into a dance hall. And after all, why should we insist upon maintaining an atmosphere of sadness in such a place?

"The Lucky One," the new play by A. A. Milne, which has just been produced by the Theater Guild, is the tragedy of a young man afflicted with charm. So complete is his attractiveness that no one recognizes his other values. He fools even his cynical old great aunt who finds his gracefulness too "intended" and sees him only as a shiny silhouette. Robert, older brother of Gerald Farrington, possessor of the charm, is not charming and consequently was considered "substantinal" and all that goes with that description. Even the audience is fooled into accepting the time-worn dictum that charm somehow means lightness of character substance. The play is true to the Milne type—which means it is entertaining as well as excellent—and it is splendidly put on by the Guild under the direction of their new stage director, Theodore Komisar.

partment experts will discuss sheep management and the use of the modern conveniences shown.

A special feature of the exhibit includes pens of live lambs, illustrating the difference between those treated and untreated for stomach worms. The use of approved remedies for the effective control of injurious parasites will be explained to interested visitors. A library of agricultural bulletins will be on display and attendants will give information regarding Department literature and how to select and obtain it.

Twenty-two large pictorial booths, each one devoted to the elucidation of an important subject, will contain the answer to almost any problem which might confront a live stock farmer. The field covered by these exhibits includes beef, pork and horse production, wool, meat production and uses, purebred sires, feeding methods, safeguarding animal health, live stock welfare, stock-pooling plants, forest-range management, standardized poultry, equipping a livestock farm, live stock statistics, live stock farming crops for live stock, utilization of feeds, reducing production costs, methods and costs of marketing, market news service and live stock grades and standards. The exhibits of the United States Department of Agriculture will alone be worth the trip to Chicago, not to take into consideration the hundreds of other educational and entertaining features offered at the International Live Stock Exposition, December 2nd to 9th.

GREEK CABINET QUIT;

SITUATION AGAIN COMPLICATED

Athens, Nov. 24.—The Greek cabinet has resigned. The political situation is extremely complicated. The military authorities are taking an uncompromising attitude regarding the former ministers who are on trial charged with treason.

Since the defeat of Greece by the Turks there has been dissension in Greece, with the Republicans and Monarchists seeking supremacy. The Revolutionary Committee, which has been in charge of the situation since the overthrow of King Constantine, has ruled with a strong hand.
